

Cosmic Factories of Metals and Dust

Alessandro Bressan¹

I will briefly review the cosmic matter transformation cycle, from metal production in hot dense stellar interiors to the emergence of molecules and dust. The cycle continues in the interstellar medium on galactic scales and is crucial to the birth of new stars and planets, possibly providing the basic bricks of life.

¹ SISSA, via Bonomea 265, Trieste, Italy